★ MUSICOLOGY APPLIED TO CONCERT: PERFORMANCE STUDIES AT WORK -INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE
1-3 December 2016
International University of Andalusia
“Antonio Machado” Campus, Baeza, Jaen (Spain)
BACKGROUND
Performance studies are encouraging a massive turning point in musicology. To such an extent that many scholars are claiming to rethink a fundamental premise of the discipline, namely the change of a traditional orientation of music as text to a recent one of music as performance. This perspective takes then performance as the object of study and the concert as the privileged space where it takes place. This conceptual change challenges established methodologies and scholarly practices, while bringing together more easily musicologists and musicians. This International Conference aims to impulse the recent debate promoted by performance studies within Iberian musicology. It will consist of a series of keynote presentations, experimental lab-concerts, selected papers and practical workshops.
